REAL ESTATE TALK: CERTIFICATE OF LOCATION /2

Why it should be up-to-date upon the property entering the market.

By Joseph Marovitch

The seller, after months of campaigning, finally receives an offer on their property. The conditions of inspection and financing are satisfied. Then the notary indicates to the seller that the seller requires a new certificate of location since the old certificate is 15 years old and the bylaws and cadastre numbers have changed. The seller says no problem and orders one. (continue reading)

WESTMOUNT PLACES AND THEIR STORIES /31

The history behind the familiar: Braeside Place.

By Michael Walsh

The farmers... in the breas.

– J. Robertson, General View of Agriculture in Perth, 1799

There is a popular idiom that states "good things come in small packages". Many "good things" became evident while finding forgotten stories embedded in the foundations of less than a dozen homes. From housing Polish war refugees, Birks jewellery stores to Canada's ninth prime minister, the stories unfold as we go back through the years. (continue reading)

DARKNESS AND LIGHT: MONTREAL, ITS ENVIRONMENT, AND VALÉRIE PLANTE

The Technoparc Wetlands, a test case for Montreal's mayor.

By Patrick Barnard

I – THE DARKNESS OF SPRAWL

The environment of Montreal is exceptional – a large island, surrounded by water, with the St. Lawrence river rushing by its southern shore and a humid climate that can be biting in winter, and semi-tropical in the summer. All across the area flow underground streams, many of them previously at the surface, but now hidden from sight.

SOCIALY SAFE ETIQUETTE DURING COVID-19

Physical distancing tips to help you when you are out and about.

By Wanda Potrykus

During the current COVID-19 pandemic, there is a myriad of posters and public service announcements informing us of the correct way to cough, sneeze and wash our hands, while others urge us to practise 'social distancing'. But there are seemingly very few that touch on the subject of the Hows and Whys of physical distancing, especially when we go out for groceries, or to take a walk, with or without a partner, the kids and the dog.
